

Food Handlers To Have Physical Examination

This Applies to All Who Handle Food for Public Consumption—Health Board Acts to Enforce State Law—Leprosy Lie Nailed—Other Matters.

After some discussion the board of health Tuesday evening unanimously adopted a resolution requiring all handlers of food for public consumption to undergo an annual physical examination, and file with the board a report of the examination. Among those who will be required to take this examination are those who work in hotels and restaurants cooking and waiting on tables; bakers; those who work in milk plants, and in fact all men and women who are employed in handling food consumed by the public. This physical examination is a state requirement, but, according to Dr. L. E. Sanford, city health officer, it has not been enforced here before.

Cheap Electrical Power Vital to State's Industry

Albany, Feb. 12 (AP).—The legislature, in its consideration of the public utility water power bill, has been warned that cheap electrical power is vital to the retention and the growth of industry in the state.

The warning came from two sources, a manufacturing group and an official of a large power-producing concern.

Merwin K. Hart, chairman of the committee of 25 of the New York State Economic Conference, yesterday at a hearing on the waterpower bill, declared that "a crying need in New York industry is for more and cheaper power."

Flord J. Carlisle, chairman of the board of the Niagara-Hudson Power Corporation, said "If the waterpower cannot be developed cheaply you cannot attract industry."

"In these days of unprecedented industrial and commercial competition," said Hart, "there is a constant strain toward lower cost of production and distribution. It is natural, under this competition, that industry should migrate from one state to another to seek an environment where it is best. This has happened and is happening. More industries have left New York than have come to New York. For 15 years upstate New York has had a relative industrial decline. This decline is still in progress. Yet New York has outstanding resources. If they are fully utilized, if restrictions are removed, if burdens are eased, there is no question that New York will forge ahead."

The legislative committee which will report the bill also have the remarks of Carlisle in their review of opinions on the measures. "There is not on the face of the globe, literally," said Carlisle, "such real opportunity for the good of the people that live in a section or region as there is in the state of New York. If this cheap power can be put to work, for every dollar that it costs to develop the horsepower to use it in industry, a minimum of $5 and a maximum of $25 would be added to use in plants and industries."

"The great gain that the state of New York is going to have by the development of these waterpowers is going to be the great industrial life that follows, the ability to tax the industries, the capital that is attracted to use the energy and the great increase of employment of people in the state who will work in these industries. If the waterpower cannot be developed cheaply you cannot attract industry."

"In industries that run 24 hours a day can go to Norway and Sweden now and buy great quantities of power at $5 and $9 per horsepower—and they do."

After remarking that all the sources of waterpower did not repose in the St. Lawrence river, Carlisle went on to point out that the price of power that may be developed there will depend upon what proportion of the cost of construction of a power plant and the dam is borne by navigation, which also would benefit from developments of the river.

Dr. Sanford said that the reason he advocated examination by the health board, was because if he should undertake to make all of the examinations it would probably take six months to complete the job, as it was a big one.

Leprosy Lie Nailed

Sanitary Inspector N. J. Cook reported to the board that malleous-minded people had been circulating false rumors in regard to a certain restaurant in this city to the effect that one of the employees had leprosy. These reports which had gained wide circulation were not only absolutely false, but were injuring the business of the restaurant, said Mr. Cook.

Inspector Cook said he had investigated and found that none of the employees or owners of the restaurant in question were sick and that the restaurant was kept in good condition and the food handled and sold of good quality.

Scarlet Fever Light

Dr. Sanford reported that all of the cases of scarlet fever reported in the city were light. Twenty-four cases had been reported in January and several more had been reported so far this month. He said that the school children were being watched carefully and where evidence of illness was discovered were promptly sent home.

There was also one case of typhoid fever in the city; that of a young woman employed as a stenographer. Dr. Sanford said that the case was an isolated one and efforts to ascertain the source of the disease had so far proven futile.

All Stores Inspected

Sanitary Inspector N. J. Cook filed with the board a three-page typewritten report on all of the stores in the city handling food products to see whether they were found observing the law or not in regard to keeping food stuffs properly covered and protected.

Inspector Cook said that he would make a re-check of the stores, and the board decided that in order to give every merchant an opportunity to comply with the health law that the list filed by Inspector Cook should not be made public.

Ills and claims were read, and the reports of the various officers, which will be found elsewhere, were read and filed.

Mayor Dempsey presided with Commissioners Hickey, Huhne, Jacobson and Moore in attendance.

Will Arrest Patrons Who 'Carry Their Own'

Warns Administrator Campbell Following Raids on Cornish Arms Hotel and Cavanaugh's in New York City—Numerous Arrests Made.

New York, Feb. 12 (AP).—Patrons who take their own liquor into hotels, restaurants and night clubs are threatened with arrest by Major Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator.

Coupled with his announcement of a new policy of enforcement action against individuals, Major Campbell, issued a warning to proprietors and managers that they must not serve accessories, glasses, ginger ale, mineral water, and ice to patrons of private dining rooms who bring liquor.

The warnings were issued simultaneously with the raiding of Cornish Arms Hotel and Cavanaugh's, one of the city's old winey known restaurants, last night. Both are situated in West 23rd street.

"The public is warned," Major Campbell said in a statement, "that the possession of liquor in public places may result in the arrest of those citizens who thus openly violate the law, and under my instructions, my agents will not hesitate to make arrests of individuals who publicly display liquor on the tables in restaurants and night clubs. Heretofore these individuals have not been arrested but from now on they must be prepared to accept the consequences of their law violations."

The Cornish Arms Hotel was raided by nine Federal agents who arrested bellboys, waiters and persons accused as bootleggers. Nine persons, including the hotel's barman, were taken. At Cavanaugh's, the proprietor, Hugh Smith, president of the operating company for the restaurant, and Maurice Maymahan, secretary-treasurer, and nine others, including waiters, were arrested.

A conference between Major Campbell and Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, will be held to determine whether in proceedings against the Hotel Manger, which was raided on Monday, they would seek a padlock order for the entire hotel or only for the dining room and a dozen guest rooms where they charge liquor was sold to Federal agents.

BROTHER OF DR. GOODYEAR PASSES WASHINGTON BIR.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.

(Special).—According to a report made February 7 by the committee on examinations to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, through John Paul Earnest, chairman of the committee, 137 passed successfully the examination of candidates for admission to the District of Columbia Bar held last December. Mr. Earnest reported that 286 applicants appeared for examination and about 48 per cent were declared successful.

Frank S. Goodyear of Kingston, N. Y., who has been residing in Washington, D. C., for some time, is among the successful candidates. He is a graduate of the Law School of National University with the degrees of Bachelor of Laws, Master of Laws and Master of Patent Law, and a member of Sigma Nu Phi, International Legal Fraternity.

His brother, Augustus S. Goodyear, of the law firm of Goodyear, Miller & Pottenger, is a well known Washington attorney, with offices in the Insurance Building, 967 15th street, N. W. It is likely that the junior Goodyear will join the firm after admission to the bar, which will take place early in March when the Supreme Court next convenes in general session.

Dr. Paul S. Goodyear of 298 H. St. brook avenue, Kingston, N. Y., is also a brother of these legal-talented men.

RED INK TOO MUCH HONOR FOR ANY VARIETY OF POTATO

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP).—Representative Snow, of Maine, has started protesting and he says he'll keep right on protesting till he gets Idaho potatoes out of the house of representatives restaurant menu.

Not that Representative Snow objects to the serving of Idaho potatoes. Oh, no. "It's potatoes propaganda," that he denounces in a loud voice. "Several times lately," said Representative Snow, "I have found Idaho potatoes listed in red ink on our restaurant menu. I am not asking that Maine potatoes be listed in red ink. I am saying that the house menu is no place for propaganda in any form, and that no variety of potato should be printed in red ink."

Explosion Caused By Bomb.

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP).—Another terrific explosion shook the north side last night. Two persons were injured, the rear of the building housing the Northwestern Laundry Company was wrecked, and the damage was estimated at more than $25,000. At first attributed to a burning boiler, fire department officials later found the boilers intact and said the explosion was caused by a bomb.

Canaries Survived Muenchen Fire.

New York, Feb. 12 (AP).—Far down in No. 4 hold, flames to the right and left of them, a majority of 7,000 canaries lived through the fire that swept the North German Lloyd liner Muenchen.

When firemen penetrated the hold today, expecting to find the birds dead, they were greeted by cheerful chirps.

Will Try to Separate Facts From Fiction

House Judiciary Committee Begins Investigation of Conditions Attributable to the Eighteenth Amendment.

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP).—The Herculean task of separating the facts of prohibition from the confused maze of impassioned controversy in which they have become obscured was undertaken today by a congressional committee.

Providing the first investigation of conditions attributable to the Eighteenth Amendment in nearly half a decade, the house judiciary committee was called into session to begin hearing on this and resolutions assigned to report the anti-liquor laws.

A spectacular inquiry, extending over many weeks, with wet and dry exchanging vigorous blows and carrying the investigation over the entire area of the prohibition question, was predicted. All who wished to be heard were promised an opportunity to speak.

To the wets, the hearings presented an opportunity for which they long have been yearning, to present their views on their favorite legislative proposals and, possibly, to obtain a committee report on some of them.

A plan of procedure has been formulated by the organized wet bloc of the house in cooperation with the association against the prohibition amendment. A long list of witnesses, including numerous names well known to the American public, was announced for the investigation.

The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church seeks no reason at this time for taking part in the hearings. A statement issued last night said the wet bloc had agreed upon no constructive program and that there was a "pitiful lack" of wet strength in congress, with no possibility of the wet proposals being approved.

The Christopherson sub-committee of the judiciary committee, which has been considering measures to carry out President Hoover's proposal for broadening the powers of United States commissioners so that they may try minor violations of the prohibition laws, has postponed further consideration until after the hearings instituted today.

Some opposition has come from members of the sub-committee which contend that measures introduced by Christopherson will not accomplish the purpose for which they are intended unless the Jones law is amended to define casual or slight violations of the prohibition laws. A bill to bring this about has been introduced.

BEST OF LINCOLN UNVEILED IN LONDON

London, Feb. 12 (AP).—A bust of Abraham Lincoln, the work of Andrew O'Connor, Irish-American sculptor who presented it to the city of London as a token of Anglo-American friendship, was unveiled at the Royal Exchange today by the Lord Mayor, Sir William Waterlow. It was formally presented to the city by the Marquis of Crewe who acted for the Marquis of Reading, chairman of the Lincoln committee.

The bust is carved from a block of American limestone quarried near Lincoln's birthplace and portrayed the President in middle age before the Civil War.

25 Under Indictment.

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 12 (AP).—Twenty-five persons were under indictment here today in what the government alleges was a huge conspiracy to transport liquor from Canada to northwest cities of the United States by mule pack trains. The conspiracy, the government charged, had resulted in thousands of dollars worth of liquor being smuggled into the United States.

Two Lose Lives When German Steamer Burns

Spontaneous Combustion in Cargo of Nitrate of Potash, Shellac and Peat Moss Believed to Have Caused Fire—Loss Placed at $3,000,000.

New York, Feb. 12 (AP).—Heeled over against the pier with her stern resting in the mud, the North German Lloyd liner Muenchen lay today a heat-battered hulk in her Hudson river slip at the foot of Morton street. The fire cost two lives and caused $3,000,000 damage.

Feeding upon the highly inflammable cargo of nitrate of potash, shellac and peat moss, the flames which were discovered two hours after the ship docked from Bremen at 9:30 a. m. yesterday defied land and river fire fighters in an all day and all night battle. Fire department officials of the fire said the fire undoubtedly was caused by spontaneous combustion.

The burning of the liner disrupted commuter service between Christopher street, New York, and Hoboken, causing inconvenience to thousands. Officials of the Hudson tubes on orders of the fire department suspended service for fear the ship, which rests almost directly over the tube, would break through and flood the tunnel. Traffic was resumed today.

All but 80 of the Muenchen's 267 passengers had quit the ship when stevedores, beginning the unloading, discovered the fire. The 80 still aboard were third class passengers undergoing customs and immigration inspection. They were marshaled ashore without knowing the ship was afire.

Soon after the flames were discovered four heavy explosions occurred. The first of these carried away the superstructure of the fire up. Thomas Willett, which was alongside, John R. Harvey, pilot of the tug, was drowned. Three other members of the crew were buried over the side but were rescued.

Gustavo Franks, third electrician of the liner, was trapped in the dynamo room of the ship and burned to death. Other members of the crew of 260 escaped but lost all their belongings.

POPE PICKS CELEBRATES EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY.

Vatican City, Feb. 12 (AP).—Pope Pius XI celebrated the eighth anniversary of his coronation this morning by attending at a solemn high Mass in the Sistine Chapel. The Mass was sung by Cardinal Locatelli, the first prelate raised to the purple by his holiness after commencing his reign.

The pontiff wore the robes of rich Venetian lace, which the Italian government presented him yesterday, with a great white and gold mantle over all. Staccato cheers, "Long live the pope! Long live the pope!" greeted his appearance on the Sella Gestatoria, borne on the shoulders of bearers in brilliantly colored livery through the four great halls leading to the chapel.

A Te Deum and thanksgiving service were sung this afternoon at St. Anne's Church in the Vatican City and the new building of the Pia Pontificia School was blessed in honor of the anniversary of the coronation.

Friday the Noble Guard will celebrate with a reception in its quarters. The crossing of the Sella Gestatoria past the chapel threshold was the signal for the Sistine choir to intone "Tu Es Petrus" (Thou Art Peter). The pope then ascended the throne on the left, or gospel side of the altar, rising or kneeling as various phases of the Mass demanded.

Near the end of the service he imparted the Apostolic benediction. It had been believed he possibly would bless the city and the world from the balcony in front of St. Peter's but at the last moment he decided to withhold this for another occasion, possibly after the expiatory Mass March 19.

KILLED HERSELF AND THREE CHILDREN OVER LOSS OF $100.

New York, Feb. 12 (AP).—Because she lost $100 her husband had given her to meet a mortgage payment on their home, Mrs. Martha Widauer, 24, killed herself and three children with gas.

The bodies were discovered in the kitchen of the home in Queens by the husband, Oscar Widauer, on his return from work.

On a table police found several insurance policies, a group picture of the family, and a note in German which was translated to read:

"Dear Oscar: I lost the mortgage money out of my purse some way. I have talked to the children and they all say they want to go with mother. Goodbye."

The children were aged ten, seven and four years. The Widauers came to the United States from Germany five years ago.

See Definite Restriction on Use of Submarines

American and British Delegates View Conference Action Tuesday As a Distinct Step Forward in Controlling Activities of Undersea Boats.

London, Feb. 12 (AP).—Both the American and British delegations to the London naval conference regard the position taken at yesterday's plenary session on submarines as representing a definite decision to restrict the use of submarines against merchant ships.

The statement of Secretary Henry L. Stimson last night that he considered yesterday's work as a significant achievement for the conference attracted widespread interest in view of the fact that submarine problems were referred to a committee for study without the plenary session expressing a formal view by vote.

During a conference with newspapermen last night the secretary said in part:

"Concerning the plenary meeting this morning, I want to call your attention to the fact that there has been a definite decision by the naval conference today, not a tentative one—a definite one."

"The five powers agreed to restrict the use of the submarine against merchant ships to the same rules which are applied to surface vessels."

"I want to say about that, that I regard that single incident as worth the visit of the American delegation here in London. That marks a step forward in a matter that our country once went to war about."

The secretary also said that impetus had been given for the movement for the eventual abolition of submarines.

Newsquemen this morning fired a volley of questions at the British spokesman concerning Secretary Stimson's pronouncement and were informed that the British delegation gave unequivocal adherence to the secretary's interpretation of yesterday's events.

The American delegation met this morning to work out the details of American submarine policy for presentation before the conference committee of the whole when the question arises in that body. The delegation expected to have everything in concrete form by tomorrow.

Another development out of American headquarters was that the delegation decided to stand firmly on its position that the unlimited categories, namely cruisers, destroyers and submarines, must be settled before the battleship problem finally is attacked.

It was confirmed that the French had presented tentative figures for the fleet tonnage desired by France and it was said these figures were furnished a sufficient basis so that practical progress could be made by the committee which is drawing up a formula for combining global and category methods of measuring navies.

This committee has reached unanimous agreement on some points but is still struggling with others. A report of its progress was expected this afternoon.

The American delegation announced officially today that no proposal regarding neutralization of the Philippines had come to the attention of the United States representatives. The announcement was made by Hugh R. Wilson at a press conference in St. James's Palace and was in response to questions regarding reports published in the United States saying a plan to neutralize the islands was under consideration.

Unofficial expressions in the American delegation were to the effect that such a plan, if found necessary, might be included in a bilateral Japanese-American treaty after the naval conference ends. However, there has been no discussion of the question between the Americans and Japanese.

Pleads Not Guilty To Election Fraud

Harry Kahn Is Charged With Voting In New York City and In the Town of Rochester—Weick Sentenced to Elmira.

Harry Kahn of New York city was arraigned in County Court before Judge Joseph M. Fowler, Tuesday afternoon, charged with making a false statement. He pleaded not guilty, through his attorney, Frank W. Brooks, and the case went over to the next term. Kahn, it is said, registered for voting in New York city and then asked for an absentee voter's ballot for his summer residence in the town of Rochester. He is said to have voted in both places and the charge is based on the statement he made to obtain the absentee ballot.

Kenneth Weick, 21 years old, of Kingston, changed a former plea of not guilty to guilty to a charge of abduction and was sentenced by the court to Elmira reformatory until discharged by law. Weick was charged, with Howard Smith, with the abduction of two girls on May 5, 1929. His attorney was Chris J. Flanagan.

With the disposing of these two cases, District Attorney Frederick G. Traver announced that the criminal calendar for this term was completed with the exception of several cases in which attorneys could not be present for trial. Judge Fowler then adjourned court until Monday, at which time it will convene without a jury or court officers to complete the business of this term. The

Hughes' Record Attacked by Senator Dill

Declares Hughes Is One of the Greatest Champions of Property Rights—Refers to Station WGY Case at Schenectady.

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP).—Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, joined in the attack against the confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes as Chief Justice of the United States today as debate on the nomination was resumed in the Senate.

Senator Dill called attention to the birthday of Abraham Lincoln and added "what a coincidence that the Senate should spend the birthday of the greatest champion of human rights since Jesus Christ walked the earth in consideration of the greatest champion of property rights as a nominee for Chief Justice of the United States."

"Masses of poor people are finding it difficult to earn a livelihood and to lay aside a little for old age," continued the Washington senator. "The views of Mr. Hughes on economic questions are just as important as his legal ability. The court is building up a body of law, not enacted by congress, going right into the life of the people and permitting the corporations to pick the pockets of the man on the street."

Hughes' record for cost of living.

"The increase in the cost of living is traceable to the economic theories that the court has adopted as the law of the land. Street car fares, gas rates, the cost of telephone service, all are affected by the valuations fixed by the court and never intended by congress."

Dill said he meant no attack on the honesty of the court, but on the economic theories of the judges which force the common people to pay millions of dollars of tribute that could not be obtained otherwise than by these decisions on valuations."

Economic Views Defeated Hughes.

"Here is a man who was decisively defeated by the American people for a second time because of his economic views," he continued. "In the will of the people not to be considered at all."

Dill argued that declarations in behalf of Hughes that he was honest and able were "hogging the issue."

"The only chance that the people have to pass on a judge of the United States is here in the Senate and we are asked to pass him because he is a Christian and a fine man."

"Defeated by the people at the polls we are now told Mr. Hughes must go back on the bench as chief justice."

The Washington senator expressed the opinion that the supreme court has become "the first department of the government."

One of the Oldest Appointees.

He referred to the fact that Mr. Hughes is almost 70 years old, "one of the oldest men ever appointed to the supreme court," and said, "I wonder if it is because the President just wants to assure that the present views of the court on valuations will be undisturbed."

Referring to the attack on Hughes made yesterday by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, Senator Dill said "I couldn't help thinking how much the senator from Idaho helped to bring about this appointment when he marched up and down the land calling for the election of the man who appointed Mr. Hughes."

Dill warned that unless the people get better treatment from the court "there will be a revolution—not of bullets but of ballots."

Refers to Station WGY Case.

Senator Dill took up the case of Station WGY at Schenectady, N. Y., in which Mr. Hughes represented the General Electric Company against the Federal Radio Commission and asserted he was unwilling to "take the chance of Mr. Hughes passing upon this question in the light of the argument" he made in that case.

In Mr. Hughes' judgment, Dill said, a "doctrine of squatter sovereignty in the air" would be set up to prevent use of a wave length by others unless the "original squatter" was paid for it.

"Those who are able to control the rights of the use of radio," he added, "will in my judgment control the public opinion of America."

ATTENDANTS SAY TAFT IS "MUCH BETTER."

Washington Feb. 12 (AP).—Attendants at the bedside of William Howard Taft said today that apparently he was "much better" than he was yesterday.

The former chief justice spent another restless night, his nurses said, awakening only twice.

Mr. Taft was in such a serious condition on arriving in Washington from Asheville, N. C., on February 3 that his physicians and members of his family were much concerned. He rallied almost immediately, however, and practically all reports from his bedside since have been encouraging.

Physicians, in commenting on the improvement, warned that the one time President of the United States had a long way to go before he recovered his health. He is suffering from a complication of ailments, a recurrence of bladder and heart trouble being attended by extremely poor circulation.

court thanked the jury for the support it had lent in the present term. Although no cases actually reached a jury for decision, some 16 or 18 were disposed of.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Some six-foot 200-pound bridge players entered for the eastern championships better known Mrs. Dorothy Rice Sims, weight 110. Motorcyclist, champion skater, aviator, painter and sculptor, she is competing with Mrs. Emory Clement against some of the greatest male players, greatest in reputation and size.

London—Knicksacks of the late T. P. O'Connor have been removed from the Westminster flat he occupied for years and given to his friends except for one thing. He called a brass band to the front door, and there it will remain. It is an Arabian symbol of welcome.

New York—Alastair Mackintosh, once the husband of Constance Talmadge of the screen, has come dazling from Europe, accompanied by the second Mrs. Mackintosh. He had a top coat of cinnamon color. Trousers checked in one-inch square, a neck coat of a basket weave of red, brown and white, a tie of orange and red, a shirt of gray and blue, bright yellow gloves and a brown fedora with turned-up rim.

Vatican City—Stamps of the Papal State which will be printed toward the close of the year will be of six designs, showing a bird's-eye view of the Vatican City, St. Peter's Square, the Vatican gardens, the Pope, the facade of St. Peter's, the Papal Harp and crossed keys.

New Brunswick, N. J.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marcus were out visiting. The fire went out. The children were cold, but ingenious. They summoned the firemen. An engine company obliged. The dwelling soon was cozy again.

London—The modern oasis depends on gasoline. Scientists leaving for Capetown will attempt to cross the Kalahari Desert, accompanied by motor trucks fitted with water tanks.

Cremona, Italy—A monument is to be erected here to Stradivarius. This was the home of the master violin maker.

Villingen, Germ.—A razor about 3,000 years old has been unearthed. Presumably merchants shaved on the trade routes in the Black Forest.

Nemi, Italy—It is now possible for tourists to walk in a gallery that carried Emperor Caligula. Sunk in a lake for centuries, it has been brought up on dry land and a road has been built to it.

New York—Jimmy De Forest has a reputation as a trainer of fighters which he feels has been damaged because the cost of a correspondence course in boxing was reduced to $2.98. He is suing for an injunction and $50,000. The cut from $27.50, he avers, has made him the butt of ridicule.

Has Great Faith In Dr. French's NU-ERB

"Best Medicine That I Have Ever Used," Says Tillson, N. Y. Resident.

MR. MERRIEW.

"I, for one, will gladly recommend Nu-Erb to anybody, for it is the best medicine that I have ever used," said Mr. Stephen Merriew, Tillson, N. Y. (Near Kingston) recently.

"For the past three years, I have been in poor health due to organic troubles. My kidneys disturbed me several times each night, I suffered from dizzy spells and constipation. I was extremely nervous, slept poorly and I had no appetite.

"I tried different medicines, but nothing seemed to give any results. Instead I kept getting worse all the time. The Nu-Erb, however, soon proved to be different and now after using it for a few weeks, my troubles have practically all disappeared. The dizzy spells have stopped and most times I sleep the whole night through without being disturbed by my kidneys. My nerves are steadier, I have a splendid appetite and my bowels are acting regularly every day."

The virtue of Nu-Erb is due to a combination of herbs, roots, leaves and barks which act on the vital organs of the human body. Each one is a tonic within itself and combined they form one of the greatest medicines of the day for combatting disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels.

McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Dr. French's Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

All Unite to Pay Homage To Lincoln

One Hundred and Twenty-one Years Ago Today The Great Emancipator and Martyr President First Saw the Light in His Humble Cabin Home.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12 (AP).—Today they observe the 121st anniversary of his birth.

Particularly here, where he sleeps, and in Chicago, where he was nominated to the presidency. But also everywhere in America—banquet halls, auditoriums, churches and from the rostra of little country schools, fast vanishing as are most of the institutions of Abraham Lincoln's day.

Banks close, honoring his memory—he who never had much money to worry about. Trade drags. The air fills with the oratory both of the gibbous and of the stammering school child.

Much speechmaking here. Allan Nevins, New York newspaperman and a member of the Columbia University faculty, stands in the Sangamon county court room, rich in memories of the man he eulogizes, and states that there might have been no "tragic era" had the Emancipator lived through the reconstruction period.

"What his reconstruction plan could have been, we can only conjecture," declares Nevins. "We may be certain, however, he would have opposed all confiscation of southern property, all harsh treatment of former Confederates; that he would have opposed undue prolongation of military government for the south, and that he would have been against the immediate grant of the ballot to all negroes."

Dr. D. C. Bean, former Assistant State Director of Labor, noted that today is the centenary of the Rail-splitter's coming of age. He announced the incorporation of an organization which will seek "to make an intensive study of his various ventures in business, to note the methods he used, the results he was able to secure, and to make these results available for the beginning—as well as the experienced—business man."

Up in Chicago, a handful of men who went through the years 1861-65 wearing the Union blue, met in memory of the man who was their Commander in Chief. There are not many more years left for this tribe. The years go marching on.

Out at the Chicago Historical Society, they brought out the familiar tall hat and the cotton umbrella—the old burlesque in which he rode—the bed on which he died.

In the Chicago parks, as in years past, hundreds paused for a moment in front of the famous figures in stone—the "standing" statue that rises in the park that bears his name; the "sitting" statue in Grant Park, framed on one side of the lake, and on the other by a boulevard of skyscrapers.

A good entertainment is also being planned to consist of a number of musical selections, readings and tableaux. Every one is cordially invited. Proceeds for the benefit of the church.

Expensive Costumes.
It is said that the costumes worn by actors in the fashion play at Oberammergau are made without regard for expense. One worn by Pontius Pilate was reported to have been made of material especially woven in Constantinople which cost 800 marks a yard.

Light Tweed Suit Liked for Travel

Plaits Being Crowded Out by Circular Skirt and Tuck-in Blouse.

This season the shops have reported very few tweeds and wool crepe outfits from the mid-season collections, although there is the usual plethora of summery frocks, advises a fashion correspondent in the New York World. The classic tailleur is, of course, to be numbered among the smartest traveling costumes at any season of the year and the light tweed suit follows in popularity.

The notable distinction of the latest costumes is the fact that plaits are being crowded out almost entirely by the circular skirt and by the prevalence of tuck-in blouses of wool in the same color as the suit but in a lighter tone. One of Chantal's suits illustrates this tendency. A two-piece suit of brown and yellow tweed has a skirt composed of strips in which the pattern of the fabric alternates to give a zigzag effect. The reverse on the jacket are also sewn on in contrast to the body of the coat and there is a simple scarf collar. The blouse is of yellow crepe and tucks in.

Women who had the suit and blouse combination too bulky to pack under a fur coat on the first stages of a trip may find some smart ensembles consisting of a woolen dress and unlined cardigan. One of these, from L'Atout, uses navy blue jersey. The dress is a simple affair with a high waist, circular skirt and collar of fine white linen finished off by two small bows at the front. The coat is a full length affair of the same fabric and comes unlined.

A very attractive little ensemble combines a sleeveless frock of very thin tweed with a matching cardigan. It appears in green, one of the Red Star colors for the South, and accents the high waist by means of a self belt with tortoise-shell buckles over the hips. The skirt is very circular and comes down to a good three inches below the knee.

The one-piece woolen frock appears either in light tweed or in a solid shade of woolen crepe, with navy blue an outstanding favorite. Lucile Paray is responsible for one dress which has a bolero on one side only, giving it a rakish, a symmetrical charming effect.

The coats proper for traveling beyond the possibility of a snowfall are generally of heavy tweed, and the canny shopper will forget all about the social climbing performed by this fabric last fall. Although some of the new suits show a formal handling of this material, the smartest of the separate coats are cut on very straight sports lines and show a minimum of trimming.

One very interesting coat appears in a mottled blue and gray pattern and is less fitted than those designed for town wear in the North. It has a scarf collar, rather wider than the classic Schlaparelli type, which appears on the right side only. This may be thrown across the front of the neck in the familiar manner or may follow the back of the neckline and lie flat on the left side of the front.

Another engaging coat appears in a very light tweed in which the combination of brown and yellow appears again. This has a commodious cape collar with a fabric bow set at the back of the neck.

Black Net and Chiffon for Sunday Night Frock

The Sunday night frock is affording many a woman an attractive reason for looking forward to a social engagement on that evening with unprecedented anticipation. Perhaps the secret of the success of this type of dress is that it deftly compromises between the formal evening gown and the afternoon dress. Black net and chiffon are special favorites on such occasions. Long, light sleeves of these diaphanous fabrics are alluring sheer. The skirts follow the draped and flowing movements of the afternoon frocks.

Caused by Wind

The vibration of high-tension power lines is caused by the wind. These vibrations seem to be transmitted along the line from span to span, causing them to continue across spots where a fault in the wire exists. It is the same phenomenon as the humming of telegraph wires.

VETERANS' VANITIES WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The Veterans' Vanities of 1930 staged at Kingston High School and, for the second time, proved as popular as on Monday night. A large audience generously applauded the work of the cast, so well trained by Harry Linton.

Before the show closed Mr. Linton thanked the cast for its cooperation, also the patrons and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jolly, former professionals, who were the stars of the Vanities. Mr. Jolly and Mr. Linton spoke of the big part Commander Bernard V. Roach played in making the Vanities possible. The show was written and staged according to suggestions put forth by him. The Vanities were the first big undertaking assumed by Commander Roach, who was recently elected as the head of Joyce-Schirick Post. Mr. Roach was general chairman of the committee that promoted the show.

Commander Roach and all the members of Joyce-Schirick Post wish to extend their thanks to all those who helped to make the show the big success it was.

REFORM AT THE TOP.

Several Senators, including Mr. Brookhart, have turned their guns on and seem to be eager to put "high society" violators of the Volstead act. They not only have the reasonable enough idea that reform should begin at the top but are persuaded that conditions there are far worse than anywhere along the line and that repentance there would be widely influential. But even while the "top" was being denounced in the Senate Representative Lehigh of New Jersey was notifying the House of what the public generally believes to be true—as follows: "There are millions of men and women who habitually or occasionally are prohibition violators. They are in every state of society, in every walk of life. I have seen laborers, mechanics, merchants, manufacturers, professional men, bankers, judges both State and Federal, clergymen both Catholic and Protestant, blandly and unconcernedly ignore prohibition." Then, as showing that "high society" is not the only offender, there are the figures just published by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company asserting that in nine years of Federal prohibition the alcoholic death rate among its 19,000,000 policyholders has increased by almost 600 per cent over the figure for 1920, and that it is now double the war-time death rate of 1918, setting forth further that the death rate from alcoholism is increasing rapidly in the South and West as well as in the East, and that the said death rate in the wage earning population during the past eight years has been "six times as high" in the United States as in Canada.

"REAL DEMOCRACY."

On February 3 Will Rogers, homeward bound on the Ile de France, witnessed as follows to the New York Times: "Rain spoiled it Sunday. H. L. Mencken and I were going to Hyde Park, London, where, if you have anything against the government or King, or even any one as low down as a Sir, why jump up on a box and get it out of your system. They sink the navy, impeach the Crown and cancel the debts, and when they finish they are just as happy as if it had been done. It's real democracy. Over home you have to be elected to the Senate before you can do it."

This time—if not every time—Will Rogers knows what he is talking about. The Hyde Park soap-box is a truly great British institution. It is not too much to characterize the unbridled soap-box oratory as the safety-valve of the British empire. It has contained—and virtually hamstringed or defeated—more radical political agitators than can be numbered; contained them because, while "getting it out of their system," they fatuously imagined that the few empty-minded fillers who listened would carry their message to the ends of the earth. It would be this country's good fortune if this wise policy of the free soap-box could commend itself to the innumerable small and big authorities of the United States now tending toward the autocratic ideal and away from the "real democracy" of our American ancestors.

MR. GRUNDY'S FRANKNESS.

One can at least admire Senator Grundy's frankness and fidelity to his convictions. It is possible to imagine him declining to apologize even to a clamorous assembly of feminists for saying that the American electorate had been "adulterated" by giving the franchise to women. Nor has he apologized for his openly expressed contempt for the "backward" states, and when some of the Senators from these States gleefully quoted his expressed opinion of Mr. Hoover when a candidate for President he retracted nothing. They quoted him as saying of Candidate Hoover: "He has never had any legislative experience. He never ran for office before—not even for dog catcher. He doesn't know anything at all, from experience, what legislation means." In response Mr. Grundy merely observed that the Senate was wasting time that ought to be devoted to weighty matters, proving that he was no trimmer or time server.

An additional observer, out of sympathy with what Mr. Grundy stands for, nevertheless predicts that much may be expected of him in Washington, and says: "He promises to be the outward and visible example of a system of invisible government whose agents usually prefer to operate under cover. He believes in high tariff and other legislative benefits for a limited class of which he is a member; he believes in practical politics as a plain matter of business; he believes in the free use of money in politics, and as a campaign collector he has given generously out of his own pocket for many years; he is a loyal, tireless and consistent old-school Republican. There is no nonsense about him; he knows what he wants, and when he goes after what he wants he is thoroughly in earnest."

The meekest hold-up seems to have occurred, by some curious coincidence, in Chicago. A patient ill with pneumonia, and just released from the hospital, was lying on a couch in his home. Came two men to the front door bearing a wreath of flowers and asked to see the patient. The patient's wife, thinking of course they were friends come to visit him, welcomed them and ushered them into his room. Whereupon they drew guns and robbed the patient of the money he had planned to use in paying his hospital bill. Yes, there are some pretty low-down folks in this world. Still, there are a lot more of the other kind. Isn't this the first time you ever read of flowers used as camouflage for a hold-up? Millions of people are saying kind and loving things with flowers every day—but that isn't news.

CUTTING DOWN ON INSULIN.

A physician treating a child for diabetes noted that the amount of sugar in the urine during the day was considerably less than that which was passed during the night. This was explained by the fact that the youngster was about during the day walking, and possibly playing some.

Accordingly the physician began giving the child a certain amount of physical exercise every day, and found that even less sugar was found in the urine, as the sugar was used up by exercising and the child began to feel better. Continuing the exercises the physician found that he could give the child an increased amount of starch food, without having to inject insulin.

Accordingly the physician has now laid out a system of treating diabetic children which is proving very successful.

Insulin is given daily until the child gets strong enough to take exercise.

Then exercise such as walking, climbing, running and gymnastics is given, and the amount of insulin gradually decreased.

In the morning the patient receives a large amount of starch food, and given as much exercise as possible. Insulin is not given before noon after this exercise. At noon is given mostly fats (milk, cream and butter) and proteins (meats, eggs or cereals).

In the afternoon a small amount of starch food and a little insulin is given, and in the evening a large amount of starch food and insulin.

Now why do I talk about this? Not that I want to prove the value of insulin because insulin is saving thousands of young lives, and preserving older ones. It has brought happiness to homes where formerly there was only black despair.

But because it shows, in a dramatic manner, that exercise will burn up the starches and prevent diabetes.

This means that under ordinary circumstances the pancreas can supply the amount of insulin necessary to keep up the heat of your body and give you energy.

However if you eat more than you need, then your only safe plan is to take more exercise. Also exercise replaces fat with muscle, and you are just that much stronger physically.

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: An ambition to become a novelist brings Enid Howard to New York City. In an East Side restaurant she meets Phil Martin, a newspaperman. He tells her he is on the trail of the Big Shot, king of New York gangsters. Frank Shive, a gangster, who is Martin's informant, accuses Enid one night and gives her a photograph. Enid discovers the picture is the Big Shot—of her missing brother. She determines to find him and picks up a trail that carries her to a second avenue house which the Big Shot and two accomplices have entered. Enid is spurred to action when she sees a policeman run away to summon help after becoming suspicious.

Chapter 2

END TO THE RESCUE

IT WAS no time for caution or thoughts of personal safety. Recklessly Enid ran toward the doorway where she had seen the policeman crouching.

The door opened under her hand. She entered and closed the door behind her. It left her in the darkness of the hall. Down at the end she could see a glow from a door to another room. A woman's voice was cursing and raving in a virulent tone.

"Roy!" she cried. "Roy! Roy! Quick! Get out of here quick!" She saw faces appear suddenly in the lighted doorway—masked with no time to make her come through the rest of the way so's we can get it."

"Old woman yourself!" The words came in a screech of fury from the doorway of the room beyond. "No, youse won't get it now! An' I hope youse're all plinched, I hope dey burn every one of youse; an' if dey don't, I know who youse are, an' Twisty'll get you."

The Big Shot laughed grimly. "She's right," he said curtly. "I'll have to stay where I is. Go on, get close up to the door all of you. Our only chance is to rush the cop before the rest of them come. But no lead—give him the bull. That'll be enough."

Enid felt her arm grasped. She was being led toward the door. The Big Shot's voice, from beside her, came in an undertone now: "Come along, Sis, we'll do our best to save you from getting plinched. It would go hard with you if you were caught, no matter what brought you here. Stick close!"

She did not answer. She was trembling. Not through fear—through emotions that were soul deep at the touch of his hand upon her arm. It was Roy—she felt more sure of it than ever!

For an instant there was utter silence, then the Big Shot's whisper

Three masked faces in the lighted doorway started Enid.

faces. Then the light went out. She snatched, rather than heard, a swift rush toward her—and then a pair of hands tightened ferociously around her throat.

"Curse you, close your face," snarled a voice, "or I'll twist that windpipe of yours so's you won't never use it again!"

It was Maloch's voice. She tore at his hands, and managed to loosen them a little.

"It's the police!" she choked out. "Oh, don't you understand—they're here!"

Another voice, obviously that of the Big Shot from his authoritative tone, spoke sharply: "Lay off her, and let's hear what she's got to say! Go on, Sis, what's the dope?"

"The police!" It seemed as though she could not speak fast enough. "The patrolman on post saw you come in here. He followed you to the door. Then he ran across the road into that store opposite here, and I saw him in the phone. I'm sure he's outside again now himself, and that there'll be a squad of men here in a few minutes."

The Big Shot's voice snapped crisply out of the darkness: "See if that's right, one of you! Open the door a crack, and see if there's a bull outside!"

Maloch's hands fell away from her. She heard the man moving quickly toward the door.

"Roy," she faltered, "oh, Roy, that's what you said when you came in," he interrupted tersely: "But the Roy stuff doesn't mean anything to us. There's no Roy here. You're in the wrong pew, girlie—but it's lucky for us you are. If you say I'm right. Now keep quiet! Listen!"

Maloch's voice came along the hall in a hoarse whisper: "It's the goods, all right. He's holding down the doorstop. This is tough! And that old woman in there just after coughing up enough so's we know that the stuff's hidden somewhere in the cellar—and us now came in a grim-monosyllabic: "Now!"

The door was flung suddenly open. A form loomed there. She saw Maloch in the lead raise his arm. There was a hoarse, surprised shout from the patrolman, a spurt of flame from his revolver, and he crumpled on the doorstep.

She was running, they were all running wildly up the avenue. From somewhere she heard the roar of a fast-traveling car, then a burst of shots.

They were around the corner now. Yes!—as she had surmised, they had left their car parked here. And now they had reached it. She saw Maloch jump for the wheel—and at the same moment, almost before she knew what had happened, the Big Shot had lifted her from the ground, deposited her on the seat of the limousine, and had leaped in beside her. The car shot forward. She sank breathlessly back on the cushions.

Skinny, from beside Maloch on the front seat, screamed out suddenly: "Here they come! Step on it!"

There was another burst of shots. Something hot seemed to sear across the side of her head. It felt as though she had burned herself with curling tongs. Strange! It made her feel dizzy. She swayed against the Big Shot's shoulder.

"What's the matter?" he asked sharply.

"Nothing—Roy," she answered weakly.

"Roy! What do you mean by this Roy stuff again? You hit, Sis?"

But this time she did not answer. Everything was swaying before her eyes. She was dimly conscious that Skinny was leaning out and firing at something, of shots that seemed to sound from everywhere, of the furious speed at which the car was travelling—and then nothing.

Pilot Recalls Somber Run Of Lincoln's Funeral Train

George W. Wrightson (right) believes he is the last of engineers who piloted Lincoln's funeral train over the route shown in map. Lincoln is shown as he appeared when president.

Redlands, Cal. (P).—Shrouded in black bunting and draped with American flags, a sable train rolled slowly over the New York Central tracks from New York to Utica between lines of silent, grieving people. One of the cars carried the body of a slain president, Abraham Lincoln.

In the engine cab of the funeral train, slowly tolling the bell as the miles passed, sat George W. Wrightson, who now believes he is last of six engineers, picked for ability who piloted the train from Washington to Springfield.

At each switch, Wrightson peered cautiously from his cab. Each switch had been spiked, to prevent tampering until the train had passed. The cortege was given right-of-way over all other traffic.

"When we reached the depot at Syracuse, the train was greeted by the most impressive demonstration I have ever seen," Wrightson recalls. "The train shed was covered with the national colors and black festoons. An immense, silent throng had waited hours to glimpse the cortege."

There were five cars in the train, carrying members of the Lincoln family, government officials, the cabinet and newspapermen. They were the first Pullmans to run on a New York Central track.

The front of the engine bore a portrait of the martyred president. At sight of the picture and the draped locomotive, throngs along the track drew back. Some waved small flags. Others wept openly. When the train had passed they stepped to the track and watched it fade into the distance.

Wrightson, 68, is nearly blind and retired from railroading after 65 years service.

CHOOSING FIRST DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSMAN SINCE 1893

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 12 (P).—The Second Congressional District has chosen a Democrat, William J. Granfield, to sit in Congress for the first time since it was laid out in 1893.

In an overwhelming victory in yesterday's special election, the Democratic nominee defeated Frederick D. Griggs, Republican, and will succeed the late Congressman W. Kirk Kaynor at Washington. The vote was: Granfield, 31,159; Griggs, 24,749. Both live in Springfield.

Two candidates running on "bone dry" platforms received a scattering vote. Attorney Whitfield Reid polled 1,031 votes and former Mayor William H. Folger of Northampton received 87. The total vote of the district, 57,067, was large.

Conflicting issues marked the campaign. Granfield, an avowed "wet", was aided by the plea of Senator David I. Walsh last Saturday for a Democratic victory to protest what he termed the failure of the administration to acknowledge the unemployment situation. He demanded consideration for New England industry in tariff making.

Griggs, a "dry" personally, said before the primaries he would recognize the recent referendum vote of the district on the repeal of the 18th Amendment as mandatory upon him to vote for modification.

Granfield carried Northampton, the home of former President Coolidge, receiving 2,891 votes to 1,742 for his opponent. He won all three cities of the district, Springfield, Northampton and Chicopee, and six of the 13 towns.

Springfield, normally Republican, gave Granfield a total of 17,410 votes to 13,704 for Griggs.

The last Democrat to represent the section in Congress was John C. Crosby of Pittsfield, who was elected in 1891 when all of western Massachusetts was included in the 12th District.

Granfield, a trial lawyer, has served three one-year terms in the State Legislature, from 1917 to 1919 as a member of the House of Representatives, and was elected to the State Constitutional Convention. He is 41 years old, a widower and the father of three children.

He was a three sports man at Notre Dame University at South Bend, Ind., in football, baseball and basketball, captaining the basketball team one year. He was given a professional layout by the Cincinnati Reds after graduation from college.

State Income Tax Returns

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Income tax returns, numbering about 800,000 pieces of mail contained in over 600 mail sacks, are now being sent taxpayers in this state. Thomas M. Lynch, commissioner of taxation and finance, said, "During the past several years it has been our practice to send out all returns about two months before the date of filing, which is April 15. We find from our experience that many of our taxpayers desire to file their returns and pay the tax to the state at the same time they discharge their obligation to the federal authorities, on March 15. It is particularly desirable that residents use the forms we mail them, so as to facilitate filing when they are returned to us."

"New York residents should remember that exemptions were increased last April, and that single persons now file on a net income of $2,500 or more, and married persons living together file jointly on $4,000 or more. Married persons filing separate returns may divide the exemption of $4,000, or it may be taken by either one of the two."

The work of preparing, separating and bundling the 800,000 returns required several months' work by employees of the bureau. The state income tax collected last year for the calendar year aggregated about $81,000,000, half of which went back to the counties of the state. Returns may be obtained at any of the branch offices.

Finding Trouble
It is true the man who is looking for trouble can always find it, but the man who isn't looking for it occasionally stumbles into it, too. That is why it isn't always wise to trust altogether to luck.

Attack Present Conditions Under Prohibition Act

First Congressional Hearing in the Decade of Prohibition on the Merits of the Dry Statute Opened Today—Drys Yet Have their Story to Tell.

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP).—The first Congressional hearing in the decade of prohibition on the merits of the dry statute itself opened at the capitol today with a denunciation of the law by Chairman Graham of the House Judiciary Committee and a series of sensational charges concerning enforcement conditions in half a dozen big American cities.

Judges, police officials and even the Governor of Michigan, were assailed by Walter Liggott, a magazine writer, and the first witness before the committee. Without mentioning names he told of a party in Detroit on the night of November 5, 1923, at which he said the Governor and the chief of police of Detroit and four judges were present.

But this was only a part of Liggott's general indictment. Going down the line he denounced conditions in Boston, Washington, Toledo, in the state of Minnesota and in Wichita, Kansas, where he said there was one of the "classiest" roadhouses to be found, comparing favorably with those in New York city.

Finally he was asked by Representative Michener, Republican, Michigan, a member of the Judiciary committee, if he stood ready to furnish proof of his assertions.

Liggott answered yes, but at the same time expressed doubt that he would ever be called upon to confirm his story, because, he added, he had the facts.

Liggott recently engaged in an exposure of Washington liquor conditions and appeared before a District of Columbia grand jury. The jury investigated conditions generally, returning only a few indictments. Chairman Graham at the outset of the session, which was one punctuated frequently by applause from spectators as the witness on the stand engaged in exchanges of debate with committee members, said the eighteenth amendment and the enforcement law had been tested for ten years "without satisfactory results".

Today's hearing was given over entirely to those attacking present conditions under the prohibition act. The dries yet have their story to tell.

QUICK THINKING SAVES OFFICER IN PLANE CRASH

Other Occupants of Junker Passenger Ship Are Burned to Death.

London.—An excellent tip for American air travelers as a possible means of escaping serious consequences from a crash was provided by the action of Lieutenant Commander G. C. Glen-Kidston of the royal navy, who was the only survivor of the ill-fated Junkers passenger plane which recently crashed and burst into flames near Godstone, England.

Seeing a crash was inevitable, Commander Glen-Kidston hung on to the luggage rack overhead and took the shock on his arms in tension. When the machine struck the ground all the other passengers were apparently shot forward from their seats into a huddled group in the front end of the cabin.

Commander Glen-Kidston released his hold on the luggage rack and scrambled out the door or a broken window, escaping from the machine in a few seconds. But even then he was not a moment too soon, for the machine was already being surrounded by burning gasoline.

Enveloped in Flames.

Apparently before the others were able to recover from being temporarily stunned by the landing shock the machine was enveloped in flames and escape was impossible.

Commander Glen-Kidston, who is a millionaire, an airplane pilot, and a racing motorist, is generally credited with hearing a "charmed life," having repeatedly been involved in extremely dangerous accidents. The fact of the matter, however, seems to be that he has a mind that works with extreme rapidity and coolness in dangerous situations.

His escape from the Junkers machine is an illustration of this. The time that elapsed between the sighting of the ill into which the machine crashed in the mist and the actual crash was probably not more than three seconds. Commander Glen-Kidston in a flash realized the danger and instantaneously did the one correct thing to have done—grabbed the luggage rack, half "climbed" himself, and took the shock of the crash on his arms.

Thief Puts Boy to Bed,

Then Escapes With Loot

Los Angeles, Calif.—It was a kind-hearted burglar, indeed, who robbed the home of Amos Jones of a bagful of silver and jewelry. For the burglar stopped long enough to put little boy to bed.

Neighbors saw Billie come home, curl up on the front porch, and go to sleep. Then they also saw a man climb out of a window of the home and almost step on the bed.

The man laid down a bag and went back into the house with Billie in his arms. Later he again climbed out and disappeared.

Mr. Jones, returning home, found the house looted and Billie undressed and tucked in his bed. Neighbors never thought of calling police when they first saw the man, they explained.

Kills Two Ducks With

One Marble From Sling

Alexandria, Va.—Killing two birds with one stone is no longer just a saying with Police Sgt. Fisher Thompson of this city, for he has two ducks to show his ability to live up to the old adage. Standing on a wharf along the river front here, the sergeant inserted a marble in his trusty sling, shot and struck a duck swimming off the wharf in the head with the shot. The shot glanced off, stunning a second duck swimming nearby, and both ducks were recovered by the nimble from a small boat.

Questioned concerning his ability with the sling, Sergeant Thompson said that he had used the weapon all during his youth and had always been very proficient with it.

PASSES ONE CRIME BILL,

DEFEATS THE OTHER

Albany, Feb. 12 (AP).—The Assembly today passed one of the state crime commission's habeas corpus bills and defeated another after both had been attacked by Democrats as "ridiculous" and an encroachment on the constitutional rights of citizens. The bill passed would make applications for writs of habeas corpus returnable wherever possible at the institution in which the applicant is confined.

The other, which failed by a vote of 58 to 13, with 76 votes necessary for passage, would require an application for a writ of habeas corpus to state if a previous application had been made, together with its disposition.

Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond of Saratoga, vice chairman of the crime commission, defended the first bill on the ground that it would stop applications made for the sole purpose of permitting the applicant to have a short "holiday" from prison.

The other, he said, is designed to prevent "frivolous" applications.

Twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing
aids, the Acousticon Products Co., Inc., 230 West 12th Street, New York, N. Y., has just perfected a new model
which represents the greatest advance in the re-creation of hearing power. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a thumb nail, which is inserted into the ear and connected by a thin wire to a tiny microphone. The microphone is connected with a powerful battery and the sound is transmitted to the ear by a tiny earpiece. The microphone is so sensitive that it picks up the sound of a watch ticking at a distance of one foot. The sound is so clear and natural that it is indistinguishable from the original sound. The Acousticon is a complete hearing aid, and it is the only one of its kind. It is a miraculous discovery, and it is a great help to the millions of people who are suffering from deafness.

"Y" Officers to Meet in Kingston

Monday the local "Y" staff was represented at the Hudson Valley Employed Officers Association conference at Newburgh by Clarence S.
Schoonmaker and Hurl VanDusen.
The conference was mainly for the purpose of bringing the associations of Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Monroe, Orange county, Port Jervis, Middletown and Kingston together to discuss various field problems of this district and also plan how the association could better serve their respective communities. During the morning the Rev. Mr. Elliott, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York, spoke. Mr. Elliott, before entering the ministry, served for two years in the Student "Y" Association and was able to speak with a firsthand knowledge of the relations between the "Y" and the church.

After quite some discussion the nomination committee reported that they suggested E. L. Martin, general secretary of Middletown for president of the association; W. Romgarten, general secretary of the Orange County Y. M. C. A. for vice president; Clarence S. Schoonmaker, of Kingston for secretary-treasurer. The officers were duly elected and invested with their offices and took charge of the afternoon discussion.

During the business session of the afternoon it was decided unanimously to be the guests of the Kingston "Y" on April 7, at which time another association meeting is scheduled.

It was also decided that many inter-association events could be had with a closer bond being gradually drawn between the cities. Mr.
Saunders, physical director of Newburgh, was appointed chairman of a committee to make arrangements for a field day, some time in May or June.

P. T. A. OF SCHOOL 8 GIVES VARIOUS PROGRAM

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 8 observed Founders' Day
Tuesday afternoon at 3:30. The 37th year of an organization whose work is being carried on in 47 states,
the District of Columbia and Hawaii,
was celebrated by a varied program
and birthday party under the direction of Mrs. Harry Clearwater, president.

Two boys from Miss Costello's room gave a sketch, entertaining in negro characters.
A playlet, "A New Vision," gave
the mothers who have not been active in Parent-Teacher work proof that time given to it is well spent.
Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Kittie and Mrs.
Broadhead and pupils Ethel Jones,
Olive Clearwater and Robert Patterson, acted the various parts.

Mrs. Russell gave an interesting talk on Founder's Day, telling of the early history of the association and bringing out facts as to how the work of the organization had helped her.
Mrs. Russell then lighted the first of 37 candles, which were on a large birthday cake. This candle was in honor of the first president, Mrs.
Bryne and Fannie Hurst, who announced the association.

Then four of the past presidents lighted candles. Mrs. Pratt, in honor of the association, which was organized in 1815; Miss Reiley, in honor of the home and school; Miss Hasbrouck, in recognition of the teachers; Mrs. Hazenbush, in honor of all associations.

The remaining candles were lighted by the president, Mrs. Clearwater, in honor of her officers and members.
The cake was then cut and sold, the money to be used in extension work.

Otto Burk, chief of police of Provo, Utah, has recommended the formation of a junior police force, composed of school children.

MINNESOTA PRISON CALLED BEST IN U. S.

Industrial Organization Is Commended in Handbook.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Stillwater prison plant is characterized as the best of its kind in the country by the third issue of the Handbook of American Prisons and Reformatories, now being published by the National Society of Penal Information.

The handbook also commends the prison industrial organizations, but points out the need of a more progressive policy in the matter of discipline and in the development of an educational program.

The article says in part:
"This (the prison) is a notable institution in two important respects:
its plant is the best of its kind in the country and its industrial system one of the most effective. The plant, carefully built as one construction job,
gives this institution a physical equipment that is probably unsurpassed in the country."

Has Envyable Record.
"Industrially the institution has an envyable record. Its shops are modern in design and construction, well lighted and ventilated. The working conditions throughout are excellent."

"The progress made in humanizing
the institution and developing individual instead of mass treatment has not been nearly as rapid as the progress in institutional and industrial development. In fact, the great plant and huge industry tend to dwarf the individual and unavoidably make him
see that he is merely a cog in a machine and an unimportant unit in a great institution."

"This inescapable problem is common to every great institution, but it is intensified here by the retention of the silence system, by a monotony of routine and by a regimentation of life, both in the cells and out, which has been abandoned in many prisons of the country. The silence system, for instance, has been given up for several decades in many states."

Plant Called Admirable.
"The state is fortunate in having a plant admirable in so many respects and an industrial system that has covered the cost of running the institution every year since 1902. But the accomplishments in these important fields make the case stronger for a more progressive policy in the realm of discipline, the development of education and other constructive features that have proved their value in institutional life, and a prison regime which makes every possible effort to treat the inmates as individual human beings rather than as a mass."

"Commenting on the board of control, the handbook says:

"There appears to be a tradition that members of the board who have served effectively shall be reappointed.
The result is a continuity in membership and a corresponding lack of appointments for political reasons such as are made in neighboring states."

Couple With 24 Children
Air Troubles in Court

Atlantic City, N. J.—Twenty-four children figured in the domestic debate of Fred Parsio, an 18-a-week
millhand, and his wife, Millie, in Judge Smathers' court here. Mrs.
Parsio had her husband summoned on a nonsupport charge.

It developed from the testimony of the wife and some of the children, she was a widow when she married Parsio three years ago. She brought with her 13 children by her first husband.
Parsio had 11 children by his first wife, who died several years before.
The two groups of boys and girls ranged in age from four to twenty-two years.

Judge Smathers decided that Mrs.
Parsio wasn't any worse off than before she married Parsio and that he would have to pay her only $5
weekly. He agreed and was freed.

Squirrels' Stores of Fir Seed Robbed for Market

Ryderwood, Wash.—Lumbermen new save by-products of forests. Three thousand bushels of fir seed cones were purchased by a lumber company at Longview, where drying operations to extract the valuable seed are in progress.

From a ton to one and one-half tons of clean seed will be obtained from these cones. Harvesters received $5 a bushel for them; the lumber company expects $15 a pound for the tree seed. Australia, Europe, Japan and New Zealand as well as the United States are in the market.

Hundreds of bushels of cones were recovered from caches made by gray squirrels, and thousands of these animals will have to bustle other winter supplies. Cones stored by rodents contain the finest seed, declare foresters.

Point Barrow, Alaska.—This northernmost tip of Alaska is enjoying one continuous round of enjoyable music gathered in by radio from all parts of the world. Because of the strategic radio position near the top of the world and the almost continuous darkness, combined with remarkable clarity of the atmosphere and differences in time, Point Barrow radio fans receive perfect programs from Japan,
England, Germany, the United States
and all corners of the globe.

demic of 1849, the British parliament,

tion of the entire water supply of this marked the first of a series of attempts to purify water for hygienic reasons.

'FARM POULTRY'

PAYING POULTRY
FLOCK IS GROWN

Spring-Hatched Pullets Carefully Developed Are Best.

Developing the spring-hatched pullets from the time the chicks leave the incubator until the pullets are placed in the laying house is the pathway to profits in the poultry industry.

"The object of this development is to have pullets of stamina, bone and vigor and fully up to the standard weight of the breed," says R. S. Dearstyne, poultryman at State college. "At first the proper rations are needed until finally the laying mash containing 20 per cent of protein is given.
The young pullets must have an abundant supply of succulent green feed especially, as the grass on the range gets old and tough. When placing birds in the laying house, do this about two weeks before they start laying so that they may become accustomed to their surroundings."

Nesting material should be changed
often, runs cleared of litter, perch poles scraped and freed of mites, and the birds examined for internal parasites. A minimum of four feet of floor space to each bird is needed in the house, and at least two feet of perch pole for each three birds. Dampness in the house and damp litter is to be avoided if the birds are not to have roups and colds. Fresh, clean water is necessary and the mash hoppers are to be kept filled at all times. Oyster shell and grit needs to be kept before the birds, and grain fed twice each day with the heaviest amount at evening.

Mr. Dearstyne says that the poultry-man will do well to spend about ten minutes each day in general observation of his flock. This will help him to find any lack of thriftiness or any indication of disease. Birds roughly handled, irregularly fed and watered,
infested with parasites or neglected in other ways will not prove profitable.

Caponizing Profitable Way to Market Poultry

Caponizing is one of the most profitable ways of marketing late-hatched cockers. In an experiment last year
fifty June hatched cockers were capon-ized. The birds were of dual-purpose breeds and caponized when they had reached a weight of 12 ounces to 2 1/2 pounds. These birds were sold the following April and averaged six pounds each, dressed for market. They brought 35 cents a pound, or an average of $2.10 per bird. The feed cost of producing these birds was 84 cents
each, and with an additional charge of 10 cents for dressing and picking,
the net profit was $1.16 per bird.

Another poultryman caponized 191
hatched Plymouth Rocks last summer.
When sold their average weight was 7.7 pounds each, and they brought 43 cents per pound. The total cost of growing these capons—chicks, feed and labor—was placed at $300.14. There were 176 birds at selling time, which brought a total of $501.14, leaving a net profit of 85 cents per bird.

Poultry Notes

Winter egg profits will depend largely on the care given pullets.

Hatch the chicks early so that the pullets are mature for winter egg production.

Don't forget the importance of fresh,
juicy greens for both the baby chicks
and old hens.

The first half of April is the ideal
time to hatch chicks of smaller breeds
such as the Leghorns.

Giving hens 12 hours of light increases egg production at the season
when the prices are high.

When calcium carbonate is not available in sufficient quantities, hens lay soft-shelled eggs or no eggs at all.

Making it easier for the hens to consume large quantities of mash aids in the production of eggs. At least 10 linear feet of double hopper space should be provided for 100 hens.

Culling should not be considered as a substitute for correct management of a flock of hens. Even the good producers may cease laying in the summer if proper care is neglected.

To carry on heavy production hens must have strong bodies and a good supply of nourishing feeds.

Good producing hens may become thin if not fed sufficiently. Total feed consumption can be increased usually by giving a moistened mash once a day
throughout the summer months.

Give free range to the birds which are to be used as breeders this spring.
They should also be fed an abundance of whole yellow corn.

Breeding, selection and poultry culture are employed by alert poultrymen to meet the shifting market demands for poultry and eggs.

Y.M.C.A. Defeats Rhinebeck Five

The Rhinebeck basketball team, that distinguished itself by trimming Spinnys Radio Five, received a setback Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A., where the quintet representing that organization handed it a 52-29 trimming. During the early stages of the game Rhinebeck was superior to the "Y" in point collecting, but the Kingston team took the lead at half time and held an edge over Rhinebeck for the remainder of the contest. Hank Krom, husky center of the "Y", led the scorers with 16 points.

In the preliminary to the feature attraction the Redeemer Church team, composed of the Y. M. C. A. Second team by a 28-27 score.

Spinny's Lose At Poughkeepsie

Spinny's Radio Five, that went to Poughkeepsie Tuesday night and met the Central Hudson team in a warm-up for its game with the Radio Five of the Bridge City at Poughkeepsie, Port Ewen on Thursday night, lost to the gas and electric men in the last stages of the contest. The score was 31-28.

After playing a good game for the first three-quarters, during which they led the scoring field, Spinny's apparently got careless in the last frame and succumbed to a scoring spree staged by the Central Hudson Five. "Bing" Van Ethen with 12 points, led the Spiny seniors and was highest individual point maker of the game.

Spinny's face a real test in the Radio Five of Poughkeepsie, that they met Thursday night in Port Ewen. The Bridge City team has a good reputation, according to information furnished Manager Terwilliger of Spinny's, who says that his outfit will play the best brand of ball possible in order to overtake the Poughkeepsie boys.

Friday night Spinny's team goes to Highland, where at Smith's Hall it will try to scalp the Highland Rose Company team.

Redeemers Look For Championship

Tonight at the Y. M. C. A. the last brace of games in the Senior Sunday School Basketball League will be played and the Redeemers, who won the first half of the circuit and now lead the second by virtue of four consecutive wins and no losses, foresee the championship coming their way for the fourth successive season.

The Redeemers are slated to oppose St. John's, and as that team has not been so successful the game will be a "walk-away" for the Redeemers. It is said, however, St. John's team will do its best to put a crimp in the Redeemers' record.

Tonight's games are scheduled as follows: Comforters vs. St. Paul Five, 8:30; St. John's vs. Redeemers, 9:15; Congregationalists vs. Presbyterians, 10:00.

Buy Two Star Infielders.

New York, Feb. 12 (AP).—The Brooklyn Robins have made the most important move toward strengthening their team by buying two star infielders, Gordon Slade and Neal Finn, from the Missions Club of the Pacific Coast League. The Robins paid $85,000 in cash and a player to be named later for the youngsters. It was learned yesterday. Finn is the shortstop and Slade the second baseman of a combination famed for making double plays.

Basketball At the Y.W.C.A.

The Girls' Industrial Basketball League of the Y. W. C. A., comprising Fuller, Jacobson, Hercules, Thompson and Schuyler-Apollo teams, is now in full swing with five evenly matched teams to fight it out in an interesting manner for court honors. The Thompson and Hercules teams are new in the circuit but they give much promise of holding their own in the tournament.

Games are played in the league at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday evenings. The schedule for this week, which will bring together Fuller's and Schuyler-Apollo and Thompson's vs. Hercules will start at 7:30 o'clock. The second game is booked for 8 o'clock.

Two braces of games have been played so far this season in which the Schuyler-Apollo team outscored the Jacobson team 13-2 and the Fuller team won from the Thompson team 14-8. Thompson's played an exceptionally good game, the score being a tie at the end of the third quarter.

"HACK" WILSON FREE FROM ALL TROUBLES

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP).—Lewis "Hack" Wilson, fighting cock of the Chicago Cubs, is free at last from all the troubles his swinging bats have stirred up on and off the baseball field.

The final case against him was decided in his favor yesterday by a Superior court jury, which acquitted him of charges of assaulting Edward Young, a Chicago milkman, and rejected Young's suit for $20,000 damages.

Planked by seven witnesses, Wilson won his case in short order. The milkman charged that the pudgy cub outfielder beat him severely during the Cub-St. Louis Cardinal game, June 21, 1928. The jury deliberated only 25 minutes.

Young testified he went to the game sober and joined other fans in booing Wilson for failing to get a hit. "Toward the end of the game," he said, Wilson vaulted into the box seats, knocked him down and then threw him over a seat. As a result, he claimed, his lip was bruised and his back wrenched so severely that he was incapacitated for weeks.

Wilson admitted starting after Young with intent to silence his taunts, but denied striking him. He said he fell while enroute to Young's seat and that Young pounced upon and struck him.

"The vile names he shouted at me were unbearable and my fighting blood naturally reached a boiling point," Wilson said, "but I did not hit him."

Wilson's witnesses corroborated his testimony, whereas Young's only witness was a physician, who said he treated him for a wrenched back and bruised lip.

SAYS BABE RUTH WILL HAVE ANOTHER BANNER YEAR.

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP).—Take it from President Ernest S. Barnard, of the American League, Babe Ruth is going to work a lot of pitchers next season if he comes to terms with the Yankees.

"Babe is in such great trim that he is a certainty to have another banner year and a big crop of home runs," Barnard said following his return from Florida. "He is in prime condition because of his faithful and rigorous training."

BATTING NELSON WANTS TO MEET CHARLIE WHITE.

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP).—Shades of Goldfied and Reno! Battling Nelson is yearning for a ring comeback. No sooner had the former world's lightweight champion read about Charlie White's comeback than he thrust out his chest and challenged him.

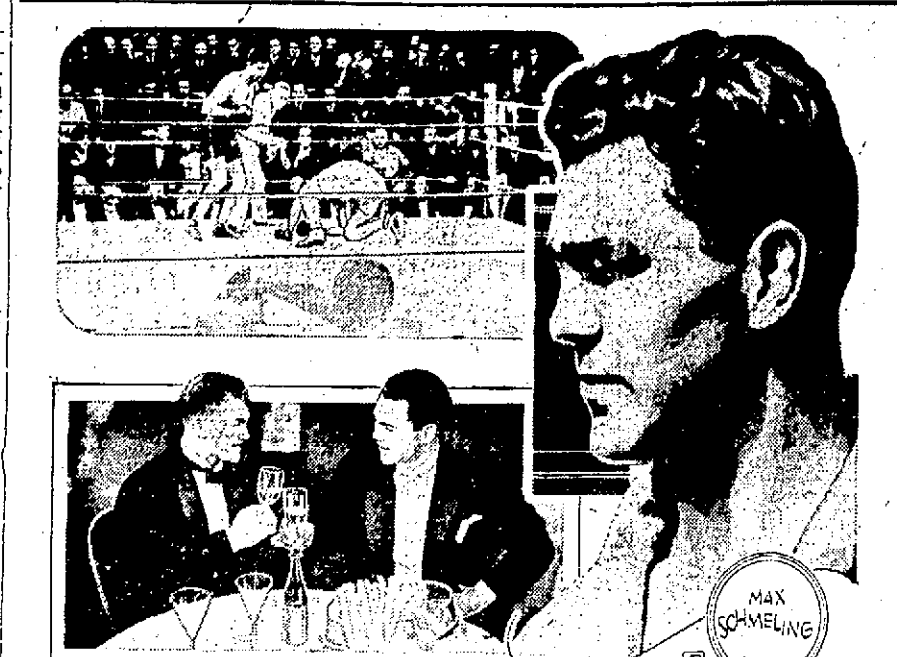

"If White is good enough to come back, so am I," the once durable Dane said. "There is many a good sock in these fists of mine and fight promoters who are digging the cemeteries for good fighters, can throw away their spades."

Nelson wants to meet White in the latter's comeback try at the Coliseum February 21.

MAX LOAF AS RIVALS FIGHT—HE GETS CRACK AT WINNER

Four thousand miles from the scene of hostilities, Max Schmelling will have nothing to do with serious fighting until June when he meets the winner of the Sharkey-Scott bout. It's mineral water Max is drinking with Franz Dener (lower left). The other scene shows Der Maxie on location with a German motion picture company.

BY EDWARD J. NEHL.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York (AP).—Just of inactivity, bane of heavyweight headlines from the time of John L. Sullivan down, seems to have little terror for Max Schmelling, tenton bomber, from the land of the Rhine.

Der Maxie tours the night clubs, drinking copious draughts of mineral water, jokers about his home in the Berlin suburbs, and occasionally takes part in pleasant little banquets with imported heaves for the benefit of moving picture cameras. Bashful Max already has declared himself one of the outstanding candidates for the film honors of his country.

A good deal of his time, too, Max spends entertaining the various members of his American managerial staff who make frequent but unsuccessful trips to Germany in expensive efforts to lure the dawdling one back to the profitable rings of the United States. In vain they assure him that all has been forgiven by the boxing commissions with which he wrangled during his last visit.

So far Max has been content to rest upon his laurels in the homeland, waiting for Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott to stage their struggle in the Southland, leaving only the winner between him and the world heavyweight title Gene Tunney tossed aside for matrimony.

The German intends to stay where he is until April, at least. By that time definite announcement will have been made of the matching of Schmelling with the Miami winner for the heavyweight title bout in the Yankee stadium here in June. The match will be staged by the milk fund, the same charity that tossed Max in to give Paulino Uzcudena a solid trouncing last June.

Thus, when Schmelling fights again, it will be after a lapse of a full year. It was a layoff twice that length that slowed up Jack Dempsey at Philadelphia, a year's rest hurt Gene Tunney at Chicago, and similar vacations have been taking the edge off famous heavyweights since the game began.

Apparently this doesn't bother Maxie's mind. He feels certain that he can always be a moving picture star.

Whether Babe Ruth collects $75,000 or $85,000 for his pursuit of the baseball aris in 1930, the payroll of the New York Yankees still will be the heaviest in the major leagues.

Even with a little pruning here and there, such as the release of Bob Meusel's $18,000 contract, the Yankee salary list runs up to around $300,000 for the season.

Those who pry into these financial matters figure the Chicago Cubs have a pay-roll aggregate in excess of $250,000, with Rogers Hornsby and Jack Wilson as the top men, at $40,000 and $25,000 respectively. Hornsby is the highest paid National League player.

Connie Mack, treasurer as well as manager of the world's champion Athletics, will sign checks amounting to more than $200,000 for 1930, a figure which probably also is equalled if not surpassed by the New York Giants.

There was a time when star pitchers drew the biggest pay checks. They still collect enough to keep the wolves away but Ruth, Hornsby, Gehrig and Wilson now are the highest paid players, to evidence the power of the home run in the front office as well as the ball park.

On the other hand, Chuck Klein drew down a mere $7,500 from the Phillies last year for breaking the National League home run record, and his team-mate, Lefty O'Doul, not much more for leading the league's batsmen with a mark of .398.

Before closing the statement of financial affairs, it may be noted that on Little, Columbia's new head football coach, becomes one of the highest. If not actually the highest paid gridiron mentor in the country. It is understood Little has an agreement calling for an average wage of $20,000 for three years, apportioned at $18,000 for 1930, $20,000 for 1931 and $22,000 for 1932.

The Carnegie report, covering over 100 colleges and universities, revealed $14,000 as the highest salary paid any head coach.

The baseball customers, made enthusiastic by Ruth, yelled for home runs and got them—so much so that in the last few years there has been a reaction and much agitation against a continuation of the cloutings. As a counter move, resin batters were given to the pitchers. Special screens were erected last season in some parks to reduce short-range targets. The National League has instructed the makers to remove the "shine" from the ball, so it will soil easier and be harder to hit.

Professional hockey, in a shorter time, has had a similar experience. To meet the cry for more goals, rules were radically changed to aid the offense this season. The consequent scoring rampage resulted in National League sevens doubling the output of goals. Now the tendency is to seek a happy medium while still furnishing enough excitement to keep up the interest of the customers.

So far as the rules are concerned, one set seems as good as another to the Boston Bruins, who won the world's championship last winter and have spread-eagled the field this season with record-breaking ease.

Ice Carnival At Saugerties

An ice carnival will be held under the Esopus Creek Sunday afternoon in the direction of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce. It starts at 2:30 o'clock and according to plans made there will be prizes for everyone from 10 years of age up. Prizes, donated by the merchants of Saugerties, will be awarded to winners of events.

Last Sunday eight races and a hockey game held on the Esopus drew an attendance of approximately 700. Everyone enjoyed the events and this week's feature is expected to draw a greater number of persons interested in outdoor sports. Alva Helm of Quarryville won a barrel jumping contest last Sunday clearing six barrels on a forward and backward jump.

The Saugerties hockey team considered a very high standard of play. It wishes to book games with teams of Ulster and Greene counties. The team is ready to play at home or out of town. Any team interested in meeting the Saugerties hockey players may book games by communicating with A. W. Richter, Saugerties. Mr. Richter also will furnish any special information desired concerning the Sunday races.

The results were as follows: President, Mrs. George F. Rice; vice president, Mrs. Frank B. Matthews; recording secretary, Miss Jessie Goodsell; corresponding secretary, Miss Ellen Van Slyke; treasurer, Miss Annie K. Fuller.

The trustees are John D. Schoonmaker and Dr. Frank H. Seelye. William Anderson Carl was elected to succeed himself.

The question of the Detroit conference in April was up for consideration and delegates from the board will be elected at the March meeting.

Today
Kingston: "Pointed Heels," Helen Kane, the hoop, hoop-a-loop girl, and Skeets Gallagher make a story out of very little. The third man in the case is William Powell, who plays the big hearted hero at the fade out. The picture is worth seeing, simply because of Kane and Gallagher.

Broadway: "Glorifying the American Girl." Some of the greatest personalities of the radio, stage and movie world perform in lavish sets for Florence Ziefeld. This picture's plot is lost in its splendor, but the work of Eddie Cantor and Mary Eaton is of fine quality. Glimpes of many favorites make this picture really enjoyable and worth seeing.

Orpheum: "On With the Show." This picture is done in natural color. Included in the cast are Betty Compson, Arthur Lake, Sally O'Neil, Louise Fazenda and the Fairbanks Twins.

Tomorrow
Kingston: Same.

Broadway: "Dance Hall," Olive Jordan, gone blonde for this picture, plays the dance hall hostess who is loved by a simple well meaning youth, but who falls for an aviator of no mean chatter and not such good intentions. However it all ends happily and is good entertainment.

Lower Forms of Life

Sacred to Egyptians

Nearly 100 different mammals, birds, reptiles and fish were regarded as sacred to various gods in ancient Egypt, and their bodies were mummified by thousands, Prof. Roy L. Moodie has found while investigating this subject for the Field Museum of Chicago. The cost of this religious procedure was enormous. More than 200 yards of fine linen cloth, a half yard wide, was needed for the wrapping of a single bull. As bulls were held in extreme veneration by the ancient Egyptians, great numbers of them were preserved. Expensive sarcophagi, curvilinear and statuary show the further care of the African bull. Birds of the hawk and falcon type were also abundantly preserved, as was the Egyptian kite, a small scavenger seen today perched on rooftops and in trees near villages. Packages contain as many as forty birds, each mummified and dipped in pitch before wrapping.

Map of Old Empire

Plans for making a great historic map of the Roman empire have been announced by an international commission of geographers. The commission was appointed to publish the map by the international geographical congress, several months ago. The map sheets will show cities and other geographical features which figured in the development of the Roman empire from the time the Romans appeared in any region to the fall of the western empire. Both ancient and modern names will be given. Distribution and types of population will be indicated, as well as important economic and social conditions. The sheet containing the city of Rome is now in process of preparation.

Pole-Rope Stretcher Made

Persons disabled while mountain climbing may be carried to lower levels in a stretcher made from a pole and a piece of rope, according to demonstrators at the recent travel show in Dresden, Germany. The rope is so wrapped and knotted as to provide a swing for the body suspended from the pole, the injured person being trussed into a comfortable position to be borne on the shoulders of his fellows.

GETS HIS MAN BUT LOSES LIFE

Two-Gun Man From Kentucky Mountains Makes Good His Boast.

Paintsville, Ky.—A two-gun man from the mountains, veteran of half-a-dozen pistol battles and survivor of almost as many gunshot wounds, recently made good his boast that if a policeman arrested him again, "I'll have to kill him," but it cost him his life.

The two-gun man, Joe Castle, former constable, "shot it out" with Patrolman Jess Dills on the main street of this mountain town while hundreds of shoppers scattered for cover.

Dills, with two ".44 specials" still spitting bullets, dropped dead almost in his tracks, shot through the heart. Castle, with a .45 in each hand, went down mortally wounded, dying in a hospital, John Marshall, Johnson county jailer, also involved in the shooting, is locked in his own jail. Officers say he probably will be charged with murder.

Feud Only Month Old.
Trouble between Castle and Patrolman Dills started a month ago, local police said, when Dills arrested Castle on a charge of drunkenness. Castle, who had been a constable for almost 20 years, was removed from office and received a jail sentence and a fine. He was released on bond pending an appeal.

At the conclusion of his trial, police said, Castle remarked that when he served his sentence, "Paintsville won't be large enough to hold the two of us," referring to Dills.

Following the shooting, Castle, in an ante-mortem statement, told his story of the gun play of Dr. E. E. Archer, attending physician.

"Elmer Conley and me had had supper with John Marshall at the jail," said the wounded man, as life slowly ebbed away. "We all started down the street and when we came in front of the Paintsville Grocery company, Policeman Jess Dills came across the street from Robinson & Melvin's restaurant and took hold of John Marshall and told him he would have to take him to jail."

"Marshall drew his pistol, and as they were in a scuffle I hit Policeman Dills over the head with my pistol. I emptied my pistol at him and was reloading it again. I think Dills took John Marshall's pistol away from him."

Then Guns Blazed.
Witnesses said Dills approached Marshall and Castle, who apparently had been drinking, to arrest them for drunkenness. As the patrolman took Marshall's arm, Castle stepped up.

"I'll have to take Marshall to jail," Dills said, according to witnesses. "You don't have to go unless you want in," Castle replied. The enemies, Castle and Dills, backed off a pace or two and a few seconds later bullets were zipping through the air.

Marshall, with two .38s, fired twice from one gun and once from the other, witnesses said. Dills and Castle both emptied their pistols.

An element of mystery entered the shooting later when it was reported that bullet holes in a window at the scene of the shooting appeared to have been made by a pistol of .32 caliber, while all of the participants were using bigger weapons. They advanced the possibility that a fourth person figured in the battle, apparently firing from across the street.

Feeling against Marshall is running high here as Dills, a war veteran, was well liked in the community. The sheriff would not reveal his plans but it was expected he would spirit the prisoner away to another jail. Castle had figured in a number of shootings and was known as one of the most fearless men in the Kentucky mountains. He had been wounded several times and a short time ago spent almost three months in a hospital recovering from gunshot wounds.

Pendant for Color in Shoes Traps Bandit

Tokyo, Japan.—Kiyoshi Nakajima is in jail serving a term for burglary because he would not sacrifice his brilliant shoes.

Nakajima, notorious as Tokyo's "brown shoe" robber, committed fifty burglaries, sixteen at the point of a revolver, within a month and finally was captured after police had rounded up every suspect in the capital wearing tan shoes. The fact that most Japanese wear a light cloth shoe called a "tabi" and wooden clogs made the task of the police easier than it may sound.

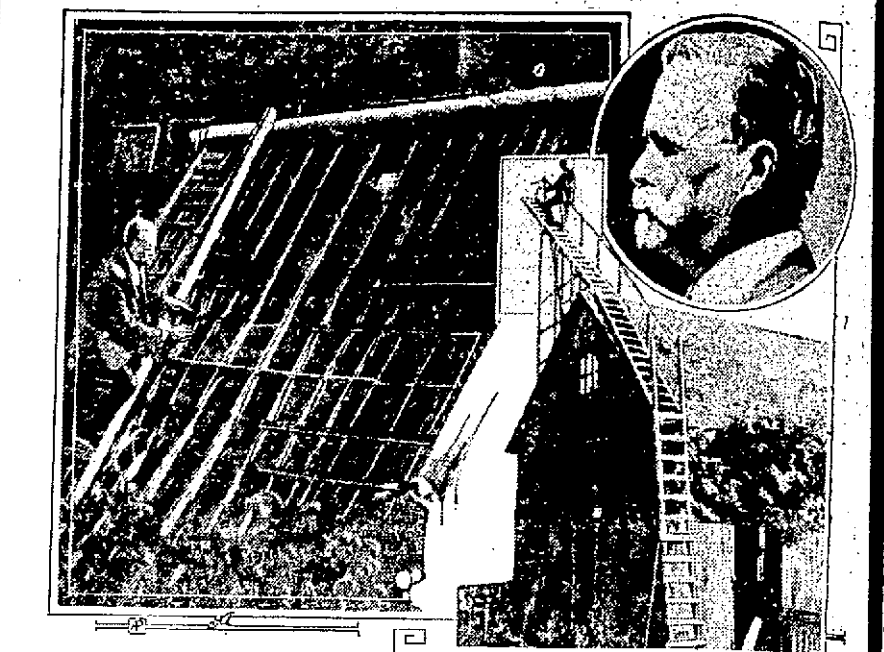

Hookey Play Brings Grief to Youngster

Juarez, Mexico.—Mrs. Paulo Aguilar wanted her two small sons to grow up and be gentleman, and although she suffered from tuberculosis, she could not let them leave school to work.

One of the boys played truant so that he might earn a few pennies to give to his mother. When he arrived home he found her dead.

Sobbing, the child ran to neighbors and cried: "Mamma told me never to play hookey, or something would happen."

INSECT EXPERT BUILDS HUGE TELESCOPE ALONE

Dr. C. W. Woodward (upper right), University of California entomologist, is erecting what will be the world's largest telescope. He is shown soldering metal strips that under the edges of small lenses he will join together (left), and atop scaffolding (right) that he built to mount the reflector.

Berkeley, Cal. (AP)—The world's largest telescope is being built single-handed by a University of California educator whose specialty is entomology.

Dr. C. W. Woodward is using 400 pieces of glass, which he is grinding to fit into one large mirror, in an attempt to prove that such a composite reflector will be as effective as single-piece lenses.

When completed, Dr. Woodward's telescope will be larger than the 100-inch mirror at Mt. Wilson, now the world's largest. It is to be square, 10 feet on a side.

Dr. Woodward believes his telescope will answer scientists' arguments.

Expansion and contraction of the mirror surface have been considered the greatest obstacles to building larger telescopes, and Dr. Woodward thinks he has solved this problem.

"It is contended," he says, "that temperature changes may expand and contract the framework on which the primary mirrors are laid to such an extent as to disturb the adjustment of separate lenses. I believe I have obviated this possibility by making the lens supports so they, like a compensated pendulum, will compensate all temperature changes."

Dr. Woodward's back yard is the scene of his experiment. Now he is building a model to be mounted in the preliminary experimental observations on the roof of his workshop.

Professor of entomology is his title at the university. Several years ago he was commissioned as an insect expert to study the country of disease-carrying flies and mosquitoes.
